

Congratulations in taking an active role in the health of your bones!

The following is your Active Level workout schedule. The program exercise schedules are for you to use and keep track of your progress.

The Warm Up and Strength Training should be followed as described in this workout schedule. Some of the strength training exercises require dumbbells, ankle weights and a burst resistant exercise ball. The equipment you will need can be found at most major outlet stores. If you feel any discomfort with any of the exercises, you should consult with a Physical Therapist before proceeding further.

The Balance Training will make you more stable and will have a direct impact on reducing your fracture risk. With practice, your balance will improve. Choose among the exercises listed that make you feel challenged but make sure that you can hold for your position for at least 15 seconds. Mix up the exercises from week to week for variety. Do a total of three to five minutes of Balance Training each session. Keep safety in mind by practicing your balance between two sturdy chairs.

The Cardio/Weight Bearing exercises will provide you with the opportunity to work on your heart and lungs as well as your bones and muscles. Follow the guidelines in your book. Don't forget to make note of what you did so that you ensure you are incorporating some maximum bone building activities into each week.

Your Flexibility component will ensure that you stay limber. You should go through the flexibility exercises and see which ones challenge you. You may be very flexible in your upper body and yet tight in your legs, so you should focus on the areas that need the most work. Make note of which stretches you have done to ensure that you review them all each week.

Finally, I encourage you to work with a with a licensed Physical Therapist (Physiotherapist), Kinesiologist, Certified Athletic Therapist or a Certified Strength and Conditioning Specialist.

 Every 12 weeks go back to doing 2 sets of lighter weights where you fatigue between 10 - 15 reps. This will give your body a little rest without losing what you have gained. Do this for 2 - 4 weeks before resuming your routine.
